Membership

Individual membership is open to all persons interested in religious librarianship regardless of professional specialization. Student membership is available to those enrolled at least half-time in the graduate study of religion or library science. A person engaged in full-time employment in a library or elsewhere is not eligible to apply for student membership in the Association.

Benefits

Student and Individual Members receive the benefits listed below. In addition, Individual Members have the right to vote. Benefits fall into the categories of professional collaboration and development and member publications.

Professional Collaboration and Development

- Discounted rates for ATLA professional development offerings, including the Annual Conference
- Interest Groups - Groups interested in specialized fields of theological librarianship that convene at the Annual Conference and may sponsor a discussion list
- NACO and CONSER Funnel Projects - National programs coordinated by the Library of Congress

Member Publications

- Summary of Proceedings - Full text or summaries of sessions of ATLA's Annual Conference
- ATLA Newsletter - The primary source of information about ATLA activities and membership news (monthly).
- Theology Cataloging Bulletin - Member-published newsletter for catalogers

Please note: ATLA's membership year is September 1 - August 31. If you join mid-year, your membership will be retroactive to September 1, and you will receive all publications for that membership year.

Contribute to ATLA

Please consider furthering the profession of theological librarianship by including ATLA in your charitable giving. The ATLA Scholarships and Grants Annual Fund is designed to support travel grants that assist student members and low-income members to travel to the ATLA Annual Conference, scholarships to assist underrepresented minorities to explore careers in theological librarianship, and recruitment efforts that will promote theological librarianship as a career choice. The ATLA Endowment Fund's purpose is to secure the future of ATLA as a membership association.
