Dear ATLA Colleagues and Friends,

During this past year, the Board of Directors, with your help, completed the alignment of two foundational pieces. For ATLA to continue with a bright future, these pieces were needed. For the past four years, the Board of Directors has focused their work on the theme of “envisioning the future of ATLA.” During Andy Keck’s presidential term, the Board of Directors hosted an all-conference luncheon to hear from the “moral owners” of the Association. The data (ideas and concerns) from this luncheon informed the work of the Board of Directors as they moved forward and focused on the next steps.

During Beth Bidlack's presidential term, the Board of Directors engaged the services of consultant Paul Meyer, President and Co-CEO of Tecker International. To create a foundation on which to build the future of ATLA, Meyer worked with leaders of ATLA’s committees and interest groups about healthy association practices and the strategic alignment of committee and interest group work with ATLA’s Organizational Ends. In the following year, the Board of Directors met with Meyer to create and share with the membership ATLA's new core purpose statement, core values, vision for the future, and new strategic plan. After listening to feedback from the moral owners, these core documents were tweaked into their current form.

Internally, the Board of Directors continued to develop and enhance their own guiding documents, including updating the Board Policy Manual, outlining the responsibilities of board members, developing a conflict of interest policy and disclosure form, and documenting their work by including the rationale for their decisions in the “whereas” statements in their formal motions so that the decision-making is transparent to members and to future board members. In addition, the Board of Directors, in cooperation with the Board's only employee and the Association’s Executive Director, developed and revised the monitoring reports. The modifications helped clarify the Board’s expectations of the Executive Director’s work.

This past year, the Board of Directors tackled the mega issue of “What will the future membership of ATLA look like?” To help the Board “experience” the possibilities, the Board of Directors attended the Parliament of World Religions in Salt Lake City, Utah. This field trip allowed the board members to dream and to visualize ATLA of the future. As a result of this visit, the Board of Directors made the commitment to create organizational ends that align with the other foundational documents. In February, the Board engaged with a Carver Governance Consultant to facilitate this important discussion. Finally, the Association’s Bylaws needed to be brought into current practice with Illinois non-profit law and the current context. Therefore, the Board of Directors proposed a revision to ATLA’s Bylaws, listened to the moral owners’ feedback, and watched the membership pass the new bylaws at the annual meeting in June. The Board also acknowledged the fifth work anniversary of the current executive director.

During the upcoming year, the Board of Directors will be developing a formal plan and process to engage and hear from the moral owners on a regular basis. Committees and interest groups continue to revise their purpose so it is aligned with the new vision and purpose. In addition, the Board is excited to see the benefits of the Executive Director’s multiple year commitment to research and development funds, which will result in possible new products and services, thus ensuring the Association’s financial future.

On behalf of the Board, I want to thank you for your ongoing support and engagement in the work of the Association. Working to help an association transition and prepare for the future is hard work, yet the benefits of these years of work are forthcoming, and I am excited to see what the future holds for ATLA.

Sincerely,

Kelly Campbell
ATLA Board President
Dear Colleagues,

The work of an association is driven by its governance documents, which outline its purpose and aspirations. A year and a half ago, the ATLA Board of Directors articulated its vision for the future of ATLA through adoption of a strategic plan, including a core purpose statement, a list of core values, and a vision statement. Implementation of that plan began in earnest this past fiscal year.

Achievement of any strategic plan requires a commitment of financial resources. Thankfully, ATLA continues to have the wherewithal to do so. Financially, this was a good year for ATLA. Although total revenue was slightly under the projected budget by 1.64%, this was more than offset by expenses which also came in under budget by 12.15%. This enabled us to make a $20,000 contribution to the Endowment Fund, add to our operating reserves, and set aside funds for market research and development of new products and services during fiscal year 2017.

Future financial security is an important aspect of good stewardship and the ATLA Endowment Fund helps assure that future theological and religious studies libraries and librarians will continue to benefit from the work of ATLA. At the end of the fiscal year, the Fund stood at $479,121 – nearly halfway to our short-term goal of reaching $1 million.

More immediate needs of the membership are met through the Scholarships and Grants Annual Fund and a re-investment of product revenue. ATLA continued to ensure that travel grants were available to support annual conference attendance for those who needed it and to issue continuing education grants to support the activities of regional groups. Since the Strategic Plan specifically calls for a worldwide presence, more resources were directed to supporting conference attendees from outside North America, particularly those from the majority world.

Many association activities were designed to give ATLA more exposure to new audiences. An exhibit booth at the 2015 Parliament of the World’s Religions in Salt Lake City, Utah, allowed members and staff to spread the word about theological libraries. At the ATS Biennial meeting ATLA staff interacted with administrators from ATS member institutions, and staff and members participated in theological library group meetings in Europe, Australia and the Philippines. Closer to home, Board members and staff attended regional group meetings in the U.S. and Canada to present the Strategic Plan and listen to feedback.

ATLA’s committees were reviewed in light of the Strategic Plan and their charges re-aligned accordingly. The Committee for Diversity, Equity and Inclusion and the Professional Development Committee in particular shifted direction and moved forward with renewed passion and vigor evidenced by the programming they generated. The 2016 ATLA Annual Conference held in Long Beach, California, was outstanding and exemplified ATLA’s commitment to its core values of hospitality, inclusion and diversity. My heartfelt thanks go to Local Host SCATLA and the Conference Committee for their work.

On the product side, ATLA reaped the benefits of the new underlying production technology that was implemented during 2015. A plethora of new titles was added to all of the databases, many of them focused on adding content to expand the breadth of topical, linguistic, and geographical coverage.

Last, but not least, the Association approved a new set of bylaws, a major step in putting the Strategic Plan into action. Although the true impact will not be known until later in the year, an early outcome was the transition of a number of libraries from Affiliate to Institutional status.

During the past year there were many more equally important activities undertaken by members and staff to work toward achievement of the Strategic Plan. I invite you to read about them in this annual report and savor the progress that has already been made.

Next year will bring both the promise and challenge of change. The Strategic Plan offers a path for members to engage with the Association and help shape its future direction. As philosopher Alan Watts once said, "The only way to make sense out of change is to plunge into it, move with it, and join the dance."

Sincerely,

Brenda Bailey-Hainer
ATLA Executive Director

so that libraries and librarians are increasingly effective and valued partners in the academic study of religion, theology, and ministry.
THE MISSION OF ATLA IS TO FOSTER THE STUDY OF THEOLOGY AND RELIGION BY ENHANCING THE DEVELOPMENT OF THEOLOGICAL AND RELIGIOUS STUDIES, LIBRARIES, AND LIBRARIANSHIP.
Libraries are served by a continuing, prepared, and diverse complement of librarians.
A sufficient number of qualified librarians serve libraries.

Librarians at all career stages and specializations have increasing knowledge, abilities and skills.

Librarians are effective advocates for their libraries and the profession.

ATLA reflects the diversity of our communities and institutions, including but not limited to religious, racial, ethnic, and gender divisions.

Collaborative relationships locally, regionally, and throughout the world enhance the preparedness of librarians.
Institutions and individuals have access to primary source material and scholarly resources that are organized, preserved, and made accessible at a reasonable expenditure of funds, time, and resources.
Libraries, librarians, scholars, students, and religious leaders have access to tools and services that meet current and emerging research needs.

Research and development initiatives successfully address needs for improved and new products and services.

Collaborative initiatives involving members successfully address information-related opportunities and problems.
Core Purpose
To promote worldwide scholarly communication in religion and theology by advancing the work of libraries and related information providers.

Core Values
• Excellence in library collections and services
• Widest possible access to relevant information and ideas
• Hospitality, inclusion, and diversity
• Collegiality and collaboration
• Creativity, innovation, and transformation
Strategic Goals

• ATLA is recognized globally as a strategic collaborator.
• ATLA has a solid reputation as a facilitator of open access publishing in the study of religion and theology.
• ATLA membership is more diverse and inclusive.
• ATLA has a shared understanding of what it means to be a hub.
STRATEGIC GOALS IN ACTION
We are an association of professionals and institutions committed to preserving, describing, and sharing the texts and conversations that are essential to teaching, learning, and research in theology and religious studies.
ATLA IS RECOGNIZED GLOBALLY AS A STRATEGIC COLLABORATOR.
This year we made it our goal to meet, collaborate, and learn from our members and users.

“ARE YOU WELCOMED?”

A Conversation Toward Building a More Diverse and Inclusive Community in ATLA at the 2016 ATLA Annual Conference sponsored by the Committee for Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI)

Attendees were presented with 4 questions that were discussed during lunch:

Question #1
Considering the new charge of the DEI Committee, how do you see this shaping the future of ATLA as an organization?

Question #2
Are there DEI initiatives at your institution? What can the Committee and ATLA as a whole offer to assist you in DEI efforts to better serve your own constituents?

Question #3
What is one thing you can personally do to assist in the DEI Committee’s new charge forward?

Question #4
What is one thing the DEI Committee can do in the next year to move the needle forward in its charge?
We understand the importance of supporting theological education throughout the world, so we established The Developing Countries Conference Grant to make attending the ATLA Annual Conference affordable for members in eligible developing countries.

We also believe that our products should be more affordable for our members and users in developing countries, so we created a new program, The Developing Countries Initiative.

- AS OF JUNE 2016 THERE WERE -

267 Subscriptions to ATLA Products at Sites in Developing Countries

30 Total Developing Countries Served

Increased global coverage in ATLA’s products was made possible through the addition of new staff with specific subject expertise and language skills.

ATLA CONTINUES TO EXPAND ITS OPEN ACCESS PUBLISHING PROGRAM.

We added a new open access monograph this year, Melody Layton McMahon’s An Enthusiasm for the Word: The Life and Work of Fr. Simeon Daly, O.S.B.

ANZTLA E-journal

ATLA now serves as the host to ANZTLA E-journal, an open access publication of the Australia and New Zealand Theological Library Association.

We have published two issues of Theological Librarianship, an open access journal publishing essays, columns, critical reviews, bibliographic essays, and peer-reviewed articles on various aspects of theological librarianship and its contribution to theological education.
ATLA HAS A SHARED UNDERSTANDING OF WHAT IT MEANS TO BE A HUB.
What does it mean to be a hub?

Cambridge Dictionaries Online defines “hub” in various ways, including the central or main part of something where there is the most activity. Synonyms may include center, heart, focal point, or nerve center. In our technology-centric world, hub may automatically bring to mind the center of a physical communications network. While we’re discovering more aspects of what it means for ATLA to be the hub of worldwide scholarly communication in theology and religion, in FY2016 through the simultaneous work of the members and staff of the association, a myriad of activities connected users with information and members with knowledge.
Here are some activities:

Provide resources like the ATLA Religion Database® and ATLASerials® that students and scholars use to identify relevant resources and get connected to them online.

Connect people physically to the right resources, such as through member institutions’ collections or through the ATLA Reciprocal Borrowing Program.

Create a venue for the exchange of ideas through in-person conferences, symposia, and webinars.

We will be working with our members this year to identify possible digital projects, and to help you navigate the myriad issues around digitization, metadata creation, copyright, and more.

The Professional Development Committee (PDC) fosters development of librarians and related information professionals who serve theological and religious studies scholarship and study. We define the infrastructure needed to deliver professional development opportunities to members throughout the year by:

1. Determining member needs
2. Identifying expert resources
3. Utilizing a variety of methods and delivery mechanisms
PDC SPRING WEBINARS SERIES

The PDC organized four successful webinars that also led to the development of ATLA’s On Demand Learning, a collection of free professional development webinars on topics in librarianship, theological librarianship, technology, and other related fields.

We were encouraged by the reception and have since planned and produced more webinars for the following year.

PNWRTLA Hosted Annual Meeting $245
The Pacific Northwest Religious and Theological Librarians Association (PNWRTLA) held its annual meeting at the Suzzallo and Allen Libraries at the University of Washington (UW) on May 11, 2016. Funds covered the outreach of Ethnic Religious Communities in the Puget Sound Region.

MTLA Hosted Annual Workshop $300
The Minnesota Theological Library Association (MTLA) held its annual Professional Development Workshop at Bethel University Anderson Center, Arden Hills, MN, on Thursday, May 26, 2016. The grant funded a workshop on Umbra: Search African American History in the Digital Humanities Age.
In order to realize and live the core value of hospitality, inclusion, and diversity as outlined in the ATLA Strategic Plan, the Committee for Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) is committed to advancing ATLA's culture that affirms the intrinsic value of all members regardless of racial, cultural, age, career stage/professional experience, sexual orientation, gender expression, expression of faith tradition, disabilities, or socio-economic differences by:

1. identifying, acknowledging, and deconstructing barriers to diversity, equity, and inclusion.
2. welcoming, valuing, and celebrating multiple perspectives and cultural vantage points.
3. increasing awareness and sensitivity toward issues of diversity, equity, and inclusion.
4. modeling meaningful exchange and full community participation.
5. creating and maintaining a welcoming and respectful environment.
6. embedding diversity, equity, and inclusion into the work and outcomes of the association.
7. providing members with resources, tools, and best practices they can use at their own institutions as appropriate.
8. transforming ATLA's composition to reflect the diversity of members' institutions and communities.

*In April 2016, Nicholas assumed the position of Chair for the remainder of 2016 and through 2017, as Lucy assumed her new role of the Board of Trustees.
DEI Meets at Parliament of the World’s Religions

The DEI Committee met in Salt Lake City, UT, to attend and hold their annual fall meeting at the 2015 Parliament of the World’s Religions. According to Shanee’ Yvette Murrain the sensory stimulation helped showcase the diverse meeting. "The vivid sounds of choral music, flutes, chanting, and snippets of oral histories being recorded for the Life Story Library spilled into the Grand Ballroom from the exhibit hall and past the reception foyer to tease my ears which were already straining to keep focus on whatever shared session I’d chosen to spend the hour in.

For the eyes, there was live Mandala Sand Painting, Palestinian-Israeli Healing Quilt, interactive art installations and the traditional religious dress of the Sikhs, Tibetan Buddhist Monks, spiritual leaders of the First Nations, and 50 or so other traditions in attendance to behold.

While my nostrils were teased by the smells of sweet incense and savory spices wafting over from prayers services and the Daily Langar meal, my heart was the most invigorated by witnessing attendees engaging in interfaith dialogue. I saw practitioners of African indigenous religions and Rabbi’s squeezed tightly on benches while Wiccans sat at their feet, all deeply engrossed in conversation about the state of our world. Interfaith dialogue in praxis looked a lot like the task set before the committee as we revised our charge, findings ways to invite all ATLA members to sit together, using formats that beckon us to the table or bench in an inclusive way.”

DEI Hosts Conference Programming

Gabriel Ortiz presented a Poster that informed members of the Committee’s history, its new direction and charge, and offered a space for members to leave personal responses and reflections on their views of the new charge and what it would mean for the future of ATLA.

The committee held a hosted all-conference luncheon entitled “Are you Welcomed? A Conversation Toward Building a More Diverse and Inclusive Community in ATLA.”

The luncheon included a presentation from the committee, a small group discussion with fellow attendees, committee members, members of the Board of Directors, and ATLA Staff. These discussions offered a great deal of information that the committee will be using in its next year of service to build a stronger, more inclusive association.

Two Diversity Scholarships Awarded

Connie Song was awarded the Scholarship for a Theological Librarianship Course at University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign to complement her current studies in theology at the Athenaeum of Ohio.

Kathryn Flynn was awarded the Diversity Scholarship which will assist in her studies toward a Master of Library Science at UNC School of Information and Library Science in Chapel Hill, North Carolina.
The Endowment Committee informs the membership of the purpose of the Endowment Fund, the cultivation of donor relationships, and the solicitation of major gifts through planned (estate) gifts and other funding sources.

The committee reaffirmed its short-term goal of a $1 million fund within the next five years and a long-term goal of $13.5 million.

Although fundraising fell short of the $10,000 goal set for the year, we are encouraged by the continued support of our members and institutions.
Slight increase over the previous year along with the donations, ATLA contributed an additional $20,000.

The Endowment Fund continues to demonstrate slow but steady growth and had a balance of $479,121 as of the end of the fiscal year.
This year we saw remarkable strides in the frequency we added new titles to our databases and also how we communicated this information to our users via a monthly press release. Independent Auditor’s Report

To the Board of Directors
American Theological Library Association
Chicago, Illinois

Report on the Financial Statements
We have audited the accompanying financial statements of American Theological Library Association (the Association) which comprise the statements of financial position as of August 31, 2016 and 2015, and the related statements of activities and cash flows for the years then ended, and the related notes to the financial statements.

Management’s Responsibility for the Financial Statements
Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America; this includes the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor’s Responsibility
Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audits to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor’s judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity’s preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity’s internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Opinion
In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of American Theological Library Association as of August 31, 2016 and 2015, and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.
