LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

A favorite book by a favorite author: Frederick Buechner’s Speak What We Feel (2001) takes up the intriguing question of what was going on, for good or ill, in the personal lives of four vastly different authors (Hopkins, Twain, Chesterton, Shakespeare) at the times when they produced their very best work. There is an element of speculation involved, certainly, but it’s still a worthwhile query, and Buechner found that hardship and reversals made a stronger contribution to that kind of greatness than did prosperity.

A fair question to pose to ourselves, I would say: do we do our best work when circumstances are at their most, or at their least favorable? Do we always make the best use of opportunities and resources, even at times when they seem to come to us in bunches? Or do more complex and otherwise difficult times summon up a new kind of creativity and resourcefulness so that, to nobody’s surprise more than our own, we find ourselves doing our best work?

However we answer this question for ourselves, the present moment provides us a timely reminder of what a treasure this association is: its product side continues to be a source of strength, advocacy, and creativity, within and beyond theological education. Whether we think of these as the best or the worst of times, or something in between, ATLA is a tremendous ally in helping us do our best work.

The publication of this report provides a perfect opportunity to express profound gratitude to all who make this association so strong: leaders, staff, Board, those who serve on all the committees, and of course to our many and diverse members. It is a pleasure to serve with you, and we look for good things in the year to come.

Gratefully,

David R. Stewart
President, Board of Directors

“Whether we think of these as the best or the worst of times, or something in between, ATLA is a tremendous ally in helping us do our best work.”
When I arrived at ATLA in 1995, I’d traveled outside the United States just once—a brief 10-day tour of the Holy Land that Sandra and I were invited to join as guests in 1966. As I witness more and more ties the Association has with libraries, librarians, and collaborative organizations throughout the world, I realize that I’ve started filling up my second passport representing ATLA. I’ve attended meetings in England, France, Germany, Italy, Poland, Hungary, Belgium, South Africa, Ecuador, Cuba, and Argentina.

And I’m not alone. Other staff and members continue to represent ATLA at many additional locations throughout the world. Barbara Kemmis, Director of Member Services, represented the Association at the biennial meeting of Red Latinoamericano Institution Teologico in Paraguay this past summer, and members of the Special Committee of the Association for International Collaboration have represented ATLA in many parts of the world.

As I reviewed the events of our last fiscal year (September 1, 2007—August 31, 2008), I recognized the fact that ATLA has become a truly international organization. Not only do we have international institutional members and affiliate relationships with international theological library associations, we also provide support, scholarships, grants, and information products throughout the world. The Association is enriched and blessed by all of these relationships.

To represent the various ways we are present in the world outside North America, Sara Corkery, our Communications Specialist, has created a series of maps that illustrate where we travel, where our members live and work, where our products are purchased and used, and other ways we are present in and related to the rest of the world.

I hope that this annual report will help you see the fabric of the Association’s many and varied relationships not just with our members but with the whole world of theological and religious studies scholarship.

The Association’s 2008 Annual Conference

The Association had not met in Canada since 1993, when we met in Vancouver. This year’s conference was a bit more complicated — U.S. citizens had to have passports to travel to and from Canada, and changing market conditions reversed the value of American and Canadian currencies. We met June 25–28 in Ottawa and were hosted by St. Paul’s University. André Paris, St. Paul’s Library Director, was a most gracious host, making sure the 300 people in attendance felt welcome and at ease.

The 2008 Annual Conference was the largest ATLA gathering in Canada in the Association’s history. The conference welcomed 34 first-time attendees and more than 70 formal and informal sessions. Of those attending, 97% rated the overall conference as excellent or good.

This year, for the first time, we were able to post the presentations of our two plenary speakers (Leslie Weir, University Librarian at the University of Ottawa, and Dr. Gregory Baum, Professor Emeritus of McGill University’s Faculty of Religious Studies) on YouTube, along with our business meetings and town meeting. A special occasion at this year’s conference was the launching of the Association’s new online journal, Theological Librarianship.

Memorials

At this year’s annual conference, we offered memorials for four ATLA members who died since the last conference: Harriet V. Leonard, Dikran Y. Hadidian, Louis C. Voigt, and David Wartluft.

Theological Librarianship Through UIUC LEEP Program

During the fall semester (2007) the Association offered the popular online course Theological Librarianship for the third time through the University of Illinois’ LEEP program. Taught by ATLA member Dr. Carisse Berryhill, the course has become a fixture of the Association’s professional development programs, and continues to draw students from throughout the country. Dr. Berryhill utilizes experienced ATLA members to share their areas of expertise with the students in weekly synchronous sessions that supplement the asynchronous assignments they pursue throughout the week.

New Writing Course Offered

In the spring semester, 2008, the University of Illinois offered a second course for theological librarians—Scholarly Writing for the LIS Profession—taught by Robert Burger, former Associate University Librarian at the University of Illinois. Twelve ATLA members took advantage of this class, subsidized with funding from the Association’s Scholarships and Grants Annual Fund.

Board Election Results

Association members voted in record numbers in this, the second year of electronic voting. More than 45% of eligible voters participated and elected three incumbents—David Stewart, Eileen Crawford, M. Patrick Graham – and one new member, Cheryl Adams.

Professional Development Committee

The Association’s Professional Development Committee appointed a task force to explore the viability of creating a theological librarianship reference module that could be offered to LIS schools for incorporation into humanities reference courses. The task force conducted research on the value of developing this module for six months, and, in the end recommended that the Association proceed with exploring ways to develop an online reference module as the Association’s contribution to library and information science education.

The Professional Development Committee also has responsibility for supporting programs at regional chapters of the Association. The following grants were awarded during the year:

- Minnesota Theological Library Association, $250.00, half-day workshop, “Access Issues for Theological Libraries.”
- Southeastern Pennsylvania Theological Library Association, $750.00, workshop, “Innovation, Fair Use & Copyright: How does a 20th century law work in the digital millennium?”
- Chicago Area Theological Library Association, $150.00, workshop, “Web-based services for theological library patrons”

Formation of Diversity Committee

At its January 2008 midwinter meeting, the ATLA Board of Directors created a new Special Committee of the Association for Diversity. Charged with helping the Association pursue its stated goal—the introduction and assimilation of individuals from minority communities into theological librarianship and the community of ATLA —the Diversity Committee met for the first time at the 2008 annual conference.

ORGANIZATIONAL END TWO:
We plan for the future of theological librarianship as a profession

Launching New Professional Journal
Throughout the year, the editorial team worked with ATLA staff to create the Association’s new professional online journal, Theological Librarianship, in time to launch in June at the Association’s annual conference. Led by Managing Co-editors David Stewart and Ron Crown, the editorial team includes Bibliographic Essays Editor, Beth Sheppard; Columns Editor, Andrew Keck; Critical Reviews Editor, Melody Layton McMahon; and Layout Editor, Sara Corkery. The editorial team is supported by a 12-member Advisory Committee. There were more than 7,000 online sessions of members accessing the new journal.

Scarecrow Publications Series
The Association continued its relationship with Scarecrow Press, a division of Rowan and Littlefield Publishing group, during the year, reaching the milestone of 100 published volumes (divided nearly equally between the monograph series and the bibliography series) and added a third series related to library and information science. Volumes published during the year included:

- Donald G. Bloesch: A Research Bibliography by Paul E. Maher;
- The Holiness-Pentecostal Movement: A Comprehensive Guide by Charles Edwin Jones;
- Discovering World Religions at 24 Frames Per Second by Julien R. Fielding; and
- More Than Silence: A Bibliography of Thomas Merton by Patricia A. Burton

The ATLA Scarecrow series now include 54 bibliographies, 48 monographs, and four additional publications.

Publications Grants
The Association’s Publications Committee revised its grant program to include a wider variety of publishing projects, and received a number of excellent applications. Two grants were awarded during the year:
- James Chappel, Research Fellow at Columbia University, for the project, “Ronald A. Knox: A Bibliography”;
- Ruth Gaba, Access Services Librarian at Concordia Theological Seminary and Kate Ganski, Librarian at Saint Francis Seminary, for the project, “An Empirical Study of the Research Behavior of Seminarians.”

New Institutional and Affiliate Members
The Association was pleased to welcome several new institutional and affiliate members during the fiscal year:

- Pacific Rim Bible College
- Virginia Wesleyan College

Affiliate Members—Other
- DPLU/UBSS University Book Sales & Services Inc.
- R.G. Mitchell Books (RGM)
ATLA/ATS Statistics Task Force

At its midwinter meeting, the ATLA Board of Directors urged appointment of a task force to work with the Association of Theological Schools (ATS) to discuss the current way library statistics are gathered by ATS and ways that the process could be improved. Members Paul Stuehrenberg, Mitzi Budde, Sara Meyers, and Bill Hook were joined by Director of Member Services Barbara Kemmis at ATS headquarters in Pittsburgh on May 1-2.

Theological Libraries Month

For the third year the Association sponsored Theological Libraries Month, an Association-wide effort to promote library services and programs on member campuses. This year more member institutions (47) participated than ever before:

- Alliance Theological Seminary
- Atlantic School of Theology Library
- Angelos Bible College Christian Theological Seminary
- Columbia International University

Major Digitization Project

During the Association’s sixty year history we have preserved more than 30,000 important historical monographs and more than 3,000 historical serials in theology and religion. In January 2007, we completed an agreement with EBSCO Publishing to digitize these important monograph and serial collections. This very significant project will make all of these important titles available to researchers and scholars in digital form. The combined collections cover all major fields of religious studies.

Migrating all of ATLA’s preservation collection to digital format will create an enormously rich resource that will benefit all future students and scholars in a format that is much more accessible than the original microform medium in which they were preserved. The agreement with EBSCO insures a minimum royalty to be paid to the Association for the next ten years. Plans are to begin releasing beta versions of the new products in the spring, 2009.

End of an Era: CD-ROM Production Ends, Print to Follow

At the end of the fiscal year (August 2008), ATLA issued its final CD-ROM products. Since more and more of our customers switched to online vendor versions of our databases, it was no longer viable to continue to produce CD-ROM versions of our products. Business Development staff worked closely with customers who purchased products directly from the Association, and helped them move to online versions of our products with one of our three online partners—EBSCO, OCLC FirstSearch, and Ovid.
Final Volume of RIO

In the spring of 2009, the final print index product—Religion Index One (RIO)—will conclude its history with Volume 40. The declining number of print customers have been encouraged and assisted to transfer their subscriptions to online versions of ATLA databases.

While the print era of ATLA’s index production lasted 40 years, the CD-ROM era of our products lasted just 15 years. Beginning with the FY2009 fiscal year, all ATLA products will be produced only in online versions.

Publishing Partners

The Association continued its publishing partnership with three partners:

1. The Catholic Library Association, publisher of Catholic Periodical Literature Index (CPLI);

Converted to electronic format by ATLA, all three databases are available from Ebsco Publishing. In July 2008, ATLA’s publishing partners met for an all-day meeting at ATLA headquarters, to discuss technological and strategic plans for publishing their databases.
ORGANIZATIONAL END FOUR

We collaborate with organizations that share our mission and goals.

Special Committee of the Association for International Collaboration

Since its creation by the Association’s Board of Directors in June 2000, the Special Committee of the Association for International Collaboration has pursued a wide variety of ideas and projects for facilitating cooperation with libraries throughout the world. During the fiscal year the committee supported several significant activities.

• The committee began development of a wiki for theological librarians. To date BETH, ABTAPL, and RLIT have become partners in this project. A Spanish wiki has been added to the website following a summer meeting of RLIT in Paraguay. A task force was appointed to critique the organization of the wiki and discuss various issues related to the future of the wiki.

• Committee member Margaret Tarpely represented the Association at the July 2008 meeting of the Christian Association of Libraries in Africa (CALA), Nairobi, Kenya.

• The Committee supported the travel of ATLA member Luba Zhakarov to represent the Association at the International collaboration with theological librarians of Russia, Italy and the Commonwealth of Independent States, “Library Support for Educational Programs in Theological Schools,” April 30 – May 3, 2008.

• The committee served as hosts for international visitors at the June 2008 ATLA Annual Conference in Ottawa, Canada.

OCLC/IFLA Theological Librarian Support

The Association continued to participate in the OCLC/IFLA Early Career Development Program, supporting new librarians from developing countries. In May, 2008, the five fellows of the program spent a day at ATLA headquarters, learning about the Association’s activities, products, and programs.

ATLA Represented at Two International Meetings

Below: In September 2007, ATLA Executive Director Dennis Norlin represented the Association at the meeting of Bibliothèques européennes de théologie (BETH) in Emden, Germany. The Association has maintained a formal collaborative agreement with BETH since 1998 that includes sharing information, providing discounts and royalties, and attending each other’s conferences.

Above: In July 2008, ATLA Director of Member Services Barbara Kemmis attended the meeting of Red Latinoamericana de Información Teológica (RLIT) in Asuncion, Paraguay. ATLA and RLIT have collaborated on matters of professional development and projects of mutual interest since 1998.
New Member/Customer Relationship Software

During the year, ATLA staff conducted research, created a competitive bidding process, and selected new member/customer relationship software—the Microsoft Customer Relationship Management (CRM4M) system, combined with SharePoint for members. This new comprehensive software system will replace legacy accounting software, membership relations software, and other systems to support one fully integrated system for all member, customer, business, and administrative software functions. The first phase of the system is scheduled to go live in January 2009, and remaining phases by June 2009.

Significant Technology Upgrade

During the year we made significant upgrades to many aspects of our technology infrastructure including acquisition and installation of six new servers, two new routers, installing 24/7 monitoring of internet connections, installation of a 10MB fiber connection to replace a T1 connection; upgrading the connection to our Storage Area Network (SAN) from Solaris servers to Linux servers; and the installation of a new system-wide uninterrupted power supply (UPS).
New Staff

During the year ATLA added six skilled and talented new staff to our number. Front row, left to right:

- Evan Boyd is a scanning assistant in the Department of Electronic Products and Services
- Jarrod Bogucki is the Digitization Specialist in the Department of Electronic Products and Services
- Denise McFarlin is the Meeting Specialist in the Member Services Department

Back row, left to right:

- Ekaterina Elgayeva is Preservation Specialist on the Preservation Team
- Erin Marshall is the Data Entry/Digitization Assistant in the Index Department
- Song (Suzie) Park is an Indexer Analyst in the Index Department.
ENDOWMENT AND SCHOLARSHIP AND GRANT CONTRIBUTIONS

The purpose of the ATLA Endowment Fund is to assure the future of the Association as a member association.

Change in Business Plan

During the fiscal year we made the decision to stop producing products for direct sales to customers, focusing instead on the production of products for sale through our online vendor partners. This decision was made after careful analysis of the current market conditions, on an analysis of our own core competencies and the skills and abilities of our staff, a realistic assessment of what is needed to create competitive online applications, and overwhelming evidence of member and customer preference for online vendor versions of our products.

This decision enables us to concentrate our efforts to maintain high levels of efficiency and quality in our production process as well as our success in working with online vendors. In the last five years we have seen dramatic increases in online sale of our products at the same time that our own print and CD ROM versions were steadily increasing.

Since our first agreement with an online vendor in 1998, and our first royalty check of $3,000 in May of that year, the Association has realized more than $25,000,000 in royalties from our partnerships with online vendors. During the last fiscal year approximately 70% of the Association’s revenue came from our contracts with three online vendor partners—EBSCO, OCLC FirstSearch, and Ovid.

ATLA Product Revenue

While ATLA institutional members continue to be the primary focus of our products, our market has expanded well beyond our membership. During the last fiscal year ATLA institutional members’ purchase of ATLA products constituted just 26% of our sales revenue. Continued expansion of ATLA’s customer base beyond our own membership both reflects and enhances our reputation for creating the highest quality bibliographic and full-text products in the field of theology and religious studies.

Note: * The surplus of $899,870.32 is primarily due to changing the accounting method for expenditures related to the Religion Database and the ATLAS journals. Salary and related benefit costs specifically related to the production of Religion Database records and ATLAS journals will be capitalized. The capitalized amounts will then be amortized over a period of five years for ATLAS and twenty years for RDB. During the year ended 8/31/08 the amount of capitalized costs less amortization is $592,206. The actual surplus without capitalizing RDB and ATLAS and prior period adjustments for Rent Holiday would be $557,919.50.

ATLA currently is managing two grant projects. A preservation grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) that preserves significant religious periodical titles representing Hispanic and indigenous religious traditions. This grant is unique because NEH allowed ATLA to include religious periodical literature from the Americas (not just from the United States as most NEH grants stipulate), and because it allows the Association to film titles as recent as 1985 (not the usual cutoff of 1950) in recognition of the preservation of these materials in many Latin American countries and environments, is much more difficult.

To date, the Hispanic and Indigenous Religious Periodical Literature (HIP) grant includes publications from 20 countries:

- Argentina
- Bolivia
- Brazil
- Canada
- Chile
- Colombia
- Costa Rica
- Cuba
- Ecuador
- El Salvador
- England
- Guatemala
- Israel
- Jamaica
- Mexico
- Panama
- Paraguay
- Peru
- Puerto Rico
- Venezuela

ATLA is also managing a grant from the Lilly Endowment, Inc., that supports access to ATLASerials for alumni of ATS-accredited theological schools whose libraries are institutional members of ATLA.
REPORT OF INDEPENDENT AUDITORS

To the Board of Directors of American Theological
Library Association

We have audited the accompanying statements of financial position of American Theological Library Association as of August 31, 2008 and the related statements of activities and of cash flows for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of Association’s management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by Association’s management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of American Theological Library Association as of August 31, 2008 and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the year then ended, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

1. General Purpose Description
The American Theological Library Association (the Association) was organized to support and improve theological libraries, and to interpret the role of such libraries in theological education by developing and implementing standards of library service, promoting research, encouraging cooperative programs, and publishing and disseminating literature and research tools.

2. Summary Of Significant Accounting Policies
Method of Accounting—The financial statements are prepared on the accrual basis of accounting in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles.

Unrestricted—Unrestricted net assets are available to finance the general operations of the Association. The only limits on the use of unrestricted net assets are the broad limits resulting from the nature of the Association the environment in which it operates and the purposes specified in its articles of incorporation.

Temporarily Restricted—Temporarily restricted net assets result from (a) contributions and other inflows of assets, the use of which by the Association are limited by donor-imposed stipulations that either expire by the passage of time or can be fulfilled and removed by action of the Association pursuant to those stipulations, (b) other asset enhancements and diminishments subject to the same kinds of stipulations, and (c) reclassifications to (or from) other classes of net assets as a consequence of donor-imposed stipulations, their expiration by passage of time or their fulfillment and removal by actions of the Association pursuant to those stipulations.

Permanently Restricted—Permanently restricted net assets (generally referred to as endowment funds) are assets that have donor-imposed restrictions that stipulate that the contributed resources be maintained permanently, but permit the Association to use or expend part or all of the income or other economic benefits derived from the donated assets.

Cash and Cash Equivalents—The Association considers all highly liquid investments with an initial maturity of three months or less at the date of acquisition to be cash equivalents, excluding such investments in money managed accounts, for the purposes of the statement of cash flows.

Accounts Receivables—The Association grants trade credit to its customers consisting primarily of products or services delivered regarding religion databases, ATLAS and preservation library. Receivables are valued at management's estimate of the amount that will ultimately be collected. The allowance for doubtful accounts is based on the Association's historical collection experience. No allowance was considered necessary at August 31, 2008.

Investments—Investments are carried at fair value which generally represents quoted market price as of the last business day of the year. Money market funds and the certificate of deposit are carried at cost.

Prepaid Expenses and Deposits—Subsequent year annual conference and deposit expenses paid in the current year are deferred and recognized as expense when the meeting takes place.

Property and Equipment—Property and equipment are recorded at cost. The Association capitalizes all capital expenditures in excess of $500. Major additions are capitalized, while replacements, maintenance and repairs which do not improve or extend the lives of the respective assets are expensed currently. Depreciation and amortization are computed over the estimated useful lives of the related assets by the straight-line method.

Depreciation expense for the year ended August 31, 2008 was $219,621.

Intangible Assets—The Association accounts for intangible assets in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 142, Goodwill and Other Intangible Assets. Intangible assets primarily consist of religion databases, ATLAS and a preservation library created through internal costs. The useful life of religion databases was determined to be twenty years. ATLAS and the preservation library intangible asset are being amortized over their estimated lives of five years.

Amortization expense for the year ended August 31, 2008 was $497,890.

Advertising Cost—Advertising costs are expensed as incurred.

Inventory—Inventory includes material and supplies related to religion databases and are stated at the lower of cost (computed on a first-in, first-out basis) or market. The Association writes down its inventory for estimated obsolescence or excess inventory equal to the difference between the cost of inventory and the estimated market value based upon assumptions about future demand and market conditions.

Deferred Revenue—Represents amounts received from customers for products or services not yet delivered. Membership dues received in advance are deferred and recognized as revenue in the applicable membership period.

Deferred Rent—Deferred rent expense consists of “free rent” paid by the landlord at the outset of the lease. The Association is recognizing operating rent expense on the straight-line basis over the term of the lease.

Estimates—The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect certain reported amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. Actual results could differ from those estimates.
3. Tax Status

The Association is a tax-exempt organization as described in Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code (Code) and is exempt from federal income taxes on income related to its exempt purpose pursuant to Section 501(a) of the Code and has been classified as an organization which is not a private foundation under Section 509(a).

5. Pension Plan

The Association has a contributory, defined contribution 403 (b) pension plan covering full-time employees who have met certain requirements as to length of service and age. The Plan provides for a mandatory matching contribution equal to the amount of the employee’s salary reduction, but not to exceed 10% of the employee’s compensation, subject to Internal Revenue Code limitations. Pension expense was $173,214 for 2008.

6. Commitments

Leases

The Association leases operating space under a noncancellable operating lease arrangement expiring during February 2021. The lease agreement provides for an annual base rent and payment for operating costs and real estate taxes which is adjusted annually. The rent expense for the lease was $232,232 at August 31, 2008. The annual future minimum lease payments are as follows:

7. Concentration of Credit Risk

Financial instruments that potentially subject the Association to concentrations of credit risk consist principally of cash. The Association places its temporary cash investments with a financial institution deemed to be creditworthy. Effective October 3, 2008, the balances are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) up to $250,000. From time to time cash balances may exceed FDIC insurance coverage.

8. Line of Credit Agreement

The Association established a line of credit in 2007, which was extended until August 31, 2009. The maximum borrowing under the line of credit is $1,700,000. Management fees in the amount of $3,356 were charged as required by the terms of the arrangement. No borrowings were made against the line of credit in the year ended August 31, 2008.

9. Restriction on Net Assets

Net assets at August 31, 2008 are available for the following purposes:

10. Prior Period Adjustment

The beginning of the year net assets have been restated to correctly classify the Endowment Fund to permanently restricted net assets from temporarily restricted net assets and correct the balance in the Endowment Fund. An adjustment also was made to remove inventory associated with religion databases that was incorrectly recorded in the previous year. Deferred rent has also been restated to the correct balance. The adjustments had the following effect on the net assets at September 1, 2007.
